NATIONAL BOARD FOR THE PROMOTION OF RIFLE PRACTICE
DEPARTMENT OF THE ARMY
WASHINGTON, D. C.

The National Trophy Rifle and Pistol Matches opened at Camp Perry, Ohio on 30 July, with the Small Arms Firing School Pistol phase and ended on 29 August 1965 with the firing of the Infantry Trophy Team Match. The 1965 matches marked the 38th year of competitions at Camp Perry, Ohio, with approximately 6,000 individuals competing for national trophies and awards offered by the National Board for the Promotion of Rifle Practice and the National Rifle Association.

At the official opening of the Matches, Major General J. Hart Caughey, Deputy Chief of Staff for Individual Training, USCONARC, stated, in part: "You are not here at Perry for fun, but for something more basic - keen competition; good sportsmanship, and to uphold a national tradition." "Some people," he continued, "wonder why we bother with small arms; why we shoot at Camp Perry. The answer is that since the Revolutionary War, America has had a reputation for marksmanship in conflict which has been the envy of our allies and despair of our enemies...there is always a place for small arms in conflict...it is a part of our heritage..it must be passed on...it must not disappear."

Since 1918, the Small Arms Firing School has been an important part of the National Match program. Here, students receive training from specially selected instructors and coaches, provided by the Armed Forces of the U. S.; United States Army Marksmanship Training Unit; the Provost Marshal General's School; Federal, state and municipal law-enforcement agencies; members of the National Rifle Association, and prominent civilian shooters of the nation.

The Department of Army, based upon recommendations of the National Board for the Promotion of Rifle Practice, is responsible for the conduct of the Small Arms Firing School, which is divided into the pistol school, the rifle school and the police school. The benefit of the schools is substantiated by the increasing number of qualified marksmanship instructors who return home and do their part in teaching others to become qualified marksmen. The outstanding records of our shooters here and abroad, is proof of the ever-increasing marksmanship skills of our people who can be called upon to defend our country in the event of war.

The National Matches are conducted by the Department of the Army and sponsored jointly by the National Board for the Promotion of Rifle Practice and the National Rifle Association. Support is provided by personnel from the Armed Forces of the United States, and selected civilian members of the National Rifle Association.

The Small Arms Firing School was attended by 2063 students for pistol training and 2522 for rifle training. The Junior-Tyro School, sponsored by the National Rifle Association, was attended by 781 students and instructors.

Funds are approved by Congress to partly defray the travel expenses to Camp Perry of members of State Civilian Rifle and Pistol teams, including two junior rifle shooters who accompany each rifle team. Forty-five rifle teams and forty-nine pistol teams representing the fifty states and Puerto Rico, were on hand at the matches to compete for awards and trophies and to avail themselves of excellent marksmanship training.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, during his command of the Allied Forces during World War II, on 16 August 1943, in personal correspondence to a civilian friend, made the following statement:

"Any young man that has ahead of him prospective service in the armed forces will do well to learn all he can about the American military rifle. If he can become a really capable rifleman, so much the better. Once he has donned the uniform he will find his hours and days so packed with intensive training that he will find the time all too short to learn the many things he should know, for his own self-preservation, before he is called upon to meet the enemy. The one weapon that every man - soldier, sailor and airman - should be able to use effectively is the rifle. It is always his weapon of personal safety in an emergency and for many it is the primary weapon of offense and defense. Expertness in its use cannot be over-emphasized."

As recently as September 1965, in a letter to the Executive Officer, National Board for the Promotion of Rifle Practice, General Eisenhower reconfirmed his belief in the effectiveness of marksmanship training and endorsed the work done by the National Board for the Promotion of Rifle Practice.

All who participated in the 1965 National Trophy Rifle and Pistol Matches are reminded of the words of the former Commander of the greatest military force to be assembled under single leadership. You are urged to continue your training in the individual arms of our fighting men as a preparatory contribution to military preparedness.

It is a privilege for me, on behalf of the Honorable David E. McGiffert (President, NBPRP), members of the NBPRP, and the Director of Civilian Marksmanship staff, to present the 1965 National Match Official Bulletin. Our appreciation is extended to the officers and men of the Armed Forces of the United States; to members of the National Rifle Association; the Ohio National Guard; Erie Proving Ground; United States Army Material Command, and to all others who contributed their services to insure the success of the 1965 National Matches.
